SEXUAL ORIENTATION IDENTIFICATION

For each of the following ten people, check the box corresponding to whether the person is heterosexual (H), lesbian (L), gay (G), or bisexual (B).

1. A woman who has had a number of romantic relationships with women and is not interested in pursuing relationships with men.

2. A man who has had several romantic relationships with women and men, though he strongly prefers relationships with men.

3. A man who is more attracted to men than women although all of his sexual relationships have been with women.

4. A middle-aged man who has self-identified as gay since his teens but who has twice cheated on his male partner by having sexual encounters with women.

5. A woman who has self-identified as heterosexual all her life but finds herself sexually attracted to a new female co-worker.

6. A man who married a bisexual woman one year after his male partner died of AIDS.

7. A woman who self-identifies as a lesbian, is active in the gay rights movement, but has a sexually monogamous relationship with her husband.

8. A woman who had a sexual relationship with her college roommate a decade ago but has since then had sexual relationships only with men.

9. A woman who psychologically, emotionally, and socially prefers the company of women over men but whose sexual experiences have been exclusively with men.

10. A man who has never felt sexually attracted to anyone or had a sexual relationship.

[From UnderstandingPrejudice.org]